

About the farm...

Dome Grown Produce is a small 20 acre farm in the heart of Oregon that practices sustainable, organic and natural growing methods. We grow in a geodesic dome greenhouse, hoop houses, and traditional rows. The dome provides year-round growing capabilities that are otherwise not possible in this region by utilizing unique undersoil heating and passive-solar features. We are working on expanding our CSA program, egg production, orchard fruits, and providing fresh produce to local restaurants, with the possibility of planting requested crops for chefs' upcoming needs.

2015 CSA

CSA, Community Supported Agriculture, is a growing social and agricultural movement that encourages small farm preservation and profitability by directly linking local growers with local community members.

When you join a CSA you get some pretty terrific benefits. You get...

- To know your farmers personally.
- To know exactly where your food comes from (even see it growing!).
- To eat healthful, often organically grown, seasonal fruits and vegetables.
- To support a local farm, preserving our essential rural environment.
- To keep your hard earned money working in your community.

Our CSA farm supports biodynamic agriculture, economical, and environmentally sustainable methods.

Weekly Share Example

Each week offers an exciting assortment of fresh produce. You'll get to experience first hand what 'eating in season' really means. Starting as early as May the first fresh greens and hardy cold crops start rolling in. Not far behind come the main summer season crops, including Tomatoes, Basil, Beans, and Beets. Later in the year come a lot of your root crops, winter squash, and potatoes.

Example Of a Typical July Week

Salad Greens	Beans
Cucumbers	Kale
Summer Squash	Braising Mix
Zucchini	Cherry Tomatoes
Baby Carrots	Culinary Herbs
Radishes	Flowers
